This is the translation of a singular little book which appeared in 1595, having for title: Disputatio per jucunda qua Anonymus probare nititur mulieres homines non esse. Some notes have been added, and some parts omitted which only bore upon the errors of Socinians or Anabaptists. The Author of this little work pretends to prove by passages of Scripture that women are not of the human race. A Minister of Brandenburg, named Gedicus, refuted this seriously without understanding the Author's aim, which was to make a violent satire against the Socinians; for what can one imagine more calculated to turn them into ridicule, or more mortifying, than to show them that the carping strictures with which they contested the consubstantiality of the Son of God, are capable of being turned to prove that the Scriptures nowhere call women human. Thus one is wrong in imagining that there is anything serious in this little work ; as was before said it is literally nothing but a satire against the abuse of the Interpretations made by...
